

You're Invited to Explore with us:
Building Community Resilience
Ending Intergenerational Trauma
At the LA84 Foundation

April 26,
2017
8:30 am—
1:30 pm

With Chris
 Blodgett, Ph.D.

Dr. Blodgett is a faculty member and Director of the CLEAR Trauma Center at Washington State University.

Dr. Blodgett and his CLEAR team partner with more than 40 schools, communities, and systems across the West Coast to adapt the science of resilience, brain development, and trauma treatment to better address trauma resulting from childhood adversity. Their work documents the profound and immediate consequences of ACEs and tests practical actions to improve child, family, and system outcomes.

We've come together to address the biggest issue behind the public health problems we face in our community.

We understand that trauma is pervasive, and strongly correlated with school failure, addiction, mental & physical health issues, violence, DV/IPV, suicide and homelessness across our lifespans. We can transform ourselves, our relationships, and our systems to explore trauma, celebrate resilience, and promote recovery and prevention. We're the Intergenerational Wellness Health Neighborhood:

Agenda: April 26, 2017

8:30-9:00 Coffee & Introductions
 9:00-1:30 Trauma-Informed Communities
 Presentation by Dr. Chris Blodgett,
 Panel & Discussion Moderated by
 Dr. Blodgett

Breakfast & Lunch will be Included

Register Here

NEW Location:
 LA84 Foundation
 2141 W. Adams Blvd.
 LA, 90018

Information:
 Anna Henderson
 Exec. Dir., WIN
 424.258.0970
 annah@winla.org